

I'm not robot

Continue

What is ares physical appearance

This gallery includes paintings and sculptures representing the Greek God Ares: The God of War, even as the Roman god Mars. The most disliked Greek God, still the second most important Roman God. Both the same person, but very different personalities. War Habit of Romans, 1824, From the collection of: Photo collection LIFE Greek gods were famous for their physical beauty, where muscles, eyes and hair, enhanced their overall appearance and are decision is no exception. Known for his spear, shield and helmet, Ares is the God of war. In this work of art Ares is the center of attention. His chariot awaits him when you see the dog, another symbol of Ares running under him. You can see the power of Ares depicted in this work of art, as the wind creates a feeling of softness as the wind blows through his hair. The Roman gods were considered an analogue of the Greek gods. They are named after objects without a real appearance, since the Greek gods are named after personality traits and overall appearance. Here you see Mars, based on the Greek God Ares, with a helmet and beautiful sheets that scratched it, as you can depict the physical beauty beneath it all. The detail in the armor, as well as in the definition of muscles, is well represented. Ares, not always a warrior, was also a lover. He is known for being Aphrodite's lover, known for being shown here, who was married to Hephaestus, aka God of Fire. Here with his shield on the ground, Ares hugs Aphrodite. This artist for this piece uses brown ink on cream paper. There are great details that the artist has given to his bodies and the shadow of their bodies under their underwear. The lines are sharp with a gentle feeling for them. Mars and Venus Surprised by Vulcan, Joachim Antonis. Wtewael, about 1606 - 1610, From the collection of: The J. Paul Getty Museum Here the artist depicts the famous love story of Ares and Aphrodite,

